Israeli's say back to talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — Most Israeli cabinet ministers were reported Sunday in favor of resuming peace treaty negotiations with Egypt based on a U.S.-proposed target date of late 1979 for moving toward Palestinian autonomy in Israeli-occupied Arab lands.

The semi-official Israeli radio said no formal decision was made at Sunday's cabinet meeting but most ministers are inclined toward reopening talks in Washington. The question of linking an Egyptian-Israeli treaty to Palestinian self-rule through some kind of timetable has been the major stumbling block to a settlement between the two countries.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has announced his country's acceptance of the U.S. target date proposal in a letter to President Carter. But the Israelis have balked at setting such firm guidelines, saying it might lead the Egyptians to abrogate the entire treaty if a timetable for Palestinian autonomy is not met.

The U.S. proposal calls for setting the end of 1979 as a target date for moving toward Palestinian self-rule in the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip. It also calls for language in the treaty preamble affirming the two Middle East countries' commitment to eventual Palestinian autonomy. Israel has accepted the preamble language but not the target date idea.

Last week Sadat sent a secret letter to Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin about the deadlocked talks. Begin began drafting a letter Sunday in response.

Though government officials refused to say whether the letter would reply directly to U.S. and Egyptian calls for resuming negotiations, Israeli television said it would reject the latest demands by Sadat, demands that have not been made public.

In addition to the timetable question, Israel objects to Egyptian attempts to delete a clause that gives the treaty priority over previous commitments Egypt made with other Arab countries. Israel feels the treaty, as it stands with the clause, voids a 20-year-old defence pact that commits Egypt to help any Arab country attacked by Israel.

NOBEL PRIZE STILL GOES

OSLO (Reuters) — Presentation of the 1978 Nobel Peace Prize will go ahead next Sunday despite the expected absence of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, the chairman of the Nobel committee said Sunday.

It was announced Saturday that Sadat, co-winner with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, will be represented by an aide instead of attending the ceremony in person.

Committee chairman Asbjørn Møller told reporters the ceremony has always been held on Dec. 10—anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel.

Mayday said hoax

HALIFAX CP — The rescue co-ordination centre said early today a report of a missing 10 metre fishing vessel with 10 persons aboard is believed to be a hoax.

A rescue centre spokesman said ham radio operators were reporting calls from as far away as Portland, Ore. of a missing fishing vessel somewhere in the eastern United States or Canada.

He said the calls had been traced to within an 80 kilometre radius and were coming from land, not from sea.

However, he said the reports of a missing vessel will have to be treated as authentic until proven otherwise.

WITH MURDER

Drug program head charged

KINGMAN, Ariz. (AP) — Charles Dederich, who turned his Synanon alcohol and drug rehabilitation program into a religious cult, was arraigned Sunday in a hospital on charges connected with attempted murder, authorities said.

Dederich, 65, was too drunk the previous day to be taken to court, the authorities said.

Dederich was formally charged at Mohave County General Hospital with conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder in a bizarre rattlesnake attack on Paul Morantz, 33, a Los Angeles lawyer. He was held in the hospital's jail ward in lieu of $500,000 bail.

Dederich was arrested on a fugitive warrant Saturday at his home in Lake Havasu City by Mohave County sheriff's deputies. Los Angeles officials had sought to have him arraigned immediately.

IN IRAN

Army battles demonstrators

TEHRAN (AP) — Imperial troops fired into the air and used tear gas in battles with thousands of anti-shah demonstrators throughout the Iranian capital Sunday night.

Power went out in many areas of Tehran after the shooting started and the fighting continued in darkness. Power plant employees had warned they would cut off electricity if the shah's troops opened fire on protesters.

There were no immediate reports of new casualties. Large groups of demonstrators, many clad in white shrouds signifying their willingness to die, rallied in as many as 25 locations in the capital, officials reported.

The officials said at least 14 demonstrators have been killed in clashes since Friday night, but opposition sources claimed the toll is closer to 70. More than 250 persons have been arrested.

Before the night-time demonstrations began, sporadic gunfire crackled across this nervous city following a night of rioting in which troops killed at least five protesters and wounded 20 others. A general strike called by Iran's exiled religious leader faltered.

Anti-shah protesters circulated through downtown Tehran tying up traffic and taunting troops. Soldiers firing into the air and swinging rifle butts chased them down streets and alleyways, injuring several.

Officials of the city's martial law government said the deaths occurred Saturday night when soldiers fired on a crowd that was leaving a mosque after the 9 p.m. curfew.

Anti-government slogans blaring from loudspeakers on the mosque's roof incited the crowd, which refused to disperse, the officials said.

The crowd had been praying at services marking Moharram, the emotional 29-day Moslem mourning period which began Saturday. The opposition has called for stepped-up demonstrations and strikes to make the holy month a showdown period between Shah Mohammad Reza Palahvi and his foes.

There were reports of rioting in the southern city of Isfahan, but no deaths were reported. Iranian students in Paris claimed at least two students died in clashes with police in Mashhad in northeastern Iran.

The military government banned public religious processions during Moharram and said it would crack down "mercilessly" on street disorders.

The government hopes to keep the fervor of Moharram from turning into the kind of anti-shah riots that have killed a reported 1,000 to 2,000 Iranians this year.

From his base in Paris, the exiled Ayatollah Khomeini, spiritual leader of Iran's 32 million Shiites and symbol of the anti-shah movement, had called for a general strike in Iran beginning Saturday. But the strike appeared to be falling. Grocery stores, pharmacies and other shops were open Sunday, a normal working day in Iran. Tanker trucks driven by soldiers instead of striking drivers kept gasoline stations supplied. Banks remained closed, apparently in fear of attack by rioters.

FLEEING VIET REFUGEES DIE

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — Two boats packed with Vietnamese refugees sank off Malaysia's northeast coast and in the Gulf of Thailand on Sunday, drowning at least 28 and sending the known death toll from such incidents in the last two weeks past 350.

Hundreds more refugees slipped through stepped-up Malaysian coastal patrols. There were more reports that ethnic Chinese, who make up most of the new arrivals, are buying their way out of Vietnam.

At least 18 refugees were drowned when their boat sank off the southern Thai city of Narathiwat, where they had been refused permission to land Saturday. More than 300 swam ashore. Police said they may have scuttled their boat to avoid having to sail on and that the number of dead may be higher since no one is sure how many the boat carried.

The other boat sank off Meachang on Malaysia's northeast coast, where hundreds of refugees land daily. One body was recovered and seven other persons were feared drowned. The 46 survivors were taken to refugee centres.

On Saturday, 139 refugees were drowned or were lost and feared dead after a boat that was refused permission to land sank north of Meachang. Four more survivors from that wreck were found Sunday.

At Kuala Trengganu, in the same region, police threw a rope to a refugee boat in rough surf and towed it ashore. All 160 occupants landed safely, but police said one died of a heart attack as he reached shore. Nearly 200 refugees died there Nov. 22 when a boat turned back by police and villagers sank.

Growing hordes of refugees drifting across the South China Sea to Malaysia are landing despite government attempts to stop them.

South African blacks voting

WINDHOEK (AP) — Blacks in South African-administered Namibia (South-West Africa) vote for the first time this week in an election for a biracial legislature but key opposition groups have called for a boycott of the polls.

Five days of balloting begin today. Opposition groups contend balloting is rigged to favor white-dominated parties.

South Africa, meanwhile, signalled it is ready to go along with United Nations demands for a later, UN-supervised election.

UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said Sunday in New York that South African officials told him they will retain authority in the territory until a UN election is held early next year.

Sam Nujoma, head of the South-West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), has ordered his followers to disrupt the voting, claiming the election will be rigged either directly by South African government supervisors or indirectly by the intimidating presence at polling booths of South African troops. About 25,000 South African soldiers are stationed in Namibia.

White-governed South Africa insists the election will be fair and invited about 200 Western correspondents to observe it. The liberal, biracial Namibia National Front, like SWAPO, has called on its followers not to vote.

'COME BACK LATER'

No decision on courses

by Brian Gregg

Marion Knoerr, chairman of Northwest Community College Board, said Friday that NCC would have to take some responsibility for so-called recreation courses if the municipality does not.

There are about 38 courses involving home skills, arts and crafts and general interest courses that are being dropped by the college because they are listed as recreation courses, said Frances Long, community education co-ordinator.

Alderman David Pease, representing himself, said that Terrace district council decided on June 12 the municipality would not assume responsibility for the recreation courses. It reaffirmed on Oct. 23 that it would not assume responsibility for the courses after rumours persisted that the municipality would take them.

College Principal Dr. Val George said, however, that to his knowledge the municipality will assume the courses. He said that during a recent meeting between the college and the municipality's recreation department a decision was made that the department would be responsible for the courses.

A delegation of nearly a dozen concerned adult education students turned out to the meeting to express their concern that the courses were not going to be taken on by the college.

One woman said that a few years ago complaints were made that the local school facilities were not being used to their full potential and now that they are, through adult education, a decision is made not to continue using them.

"We have been trying to get some straight answers from everyone involved but we aren't getting any," she said. "It is very important for us to see these courses continue but so far no one has assumed responsibility for the recreation courses. More and more people are coming to Terrace and they want to get involved in these kinds of courses," she said.

Hans Wagner, representing Kitimat on the college board, said that NCC does not want to compete with recreation organizations.

The board later had to turn down a recommendation from Val George that NCC assume responsibility for all adult education programs in Prince Rupert, including the recreation programs, because the school board of that city only recently informed the college of its decision to dump the courses and there was no time to discuss the matter with city council.

Knoerr said that the students and the instructors of the recreation courses should wait for three months to see if they were going to be short changed and if they did not receive satisfaction by then to come back to the college board and express their concerns.

Kitimat is faced with the same problem as Terrace and many of the residents there are as concerned about the future of the recreation type of courses as the Terrace residents are, a woman from that community said.

Frances Long said that of the 717 students involved in academic, vocational, arts and crafts, workshops and lectures through community education there will only be 290 students involved in the NCC takeover of the adult education programs. This leaves 427 students who will not be assimilated into the program.

Train crash killed six

SHIPMAN, Va. (AP) — A passenger train jumped tracks on a curve and crashed into a ravine in mountainous southcentral

Virginia early Sunday, killing six persons and injuring at least 60 others.

A cook, Ned Haynes, of Atlanta, Ga., was trapped for 11 hours in the debris of the smashed Southern Railway dining car. His legs were pinned beneath a stove and workers used bulldozers to peel back the side of the car and then lift the heavy stove.

Dr. Kenneth Wallenborn, who helped treat injured passengers, said Haynes suffered third-degree burns on his chest and stomach and a broken ankle and leg.

At least five of the other injured were reported in critical condition.

At the scene, snow mixed with rain was falling in near-freezing temperatures. Blood was smeared on windows that had been broken when passengers escaped.

Ponti, 65, is the main defendant in the year-long trial, which involves movie personalities, bank officials and others. Ponti, being tried in absentia, and 28 others are accused of smuggling currency through small companies handling Ponti's business.

Police have a warrant for Ponti's arrest. But neither he nor Miss Loren has been in Italy since she was stopped by customs officials in March, 1977, as she passed through Rome's airport.

ROME (AP) — A Rome prosecutor Saturday demanded fines of nearly $20 million against actress Sophia Loren and about $35 million against her film-producer husband, Carlo Ponti, for allegedly transferring money abroad illegally.

NO THANKS

CAIRO (AP) — In an age when most Western women demand equality with men, some Egyptian women still believe in the principle of separate but equal.

A meeting on women and transportation has asked the government to restore the so-called "harem compartments" in Egypt's buses and trains.

ONE SHOT

Two men jailed

Paul Martin is in satisfactory condition but remains in the intensive care ward in Mills Memorial hospital with gunshot wounds apparently suffered in an altercation over the weekend.

Terrace RCMP, who have refused to release any more information until charges have been laid, say they have two suspects in custody.

The 28-year-old Martin, was reported shot in a flight at a Kalum Street residence at about 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

Police are still investigating the incident.

NEWS IN BRIEF

FORT ASSINIBOINE, Alta. (CP) — Alberta's Heritage Savings Trust Fund demonstrates prudent financial management that that sets an example for Ottawa and other provinces, says federal Progressive Conservative Leader Joe Clark.

Clark told a public meeting here Saturday that Alberta's Conservative government should be praised for not going on a spending binge with its oil revenues.

Alberta's approach was more sensible than that of the federal government, which used excess tax revenue during the economically-buoyant 1960s for costly new social programs. Ottawa should have reduced taxes instead of starting new programs and winding up in the economically lacklustre late 1970s with a "severe deficit problem."

Clark, on a 48-hour tour of the Yellowhead constituency where he intends to run in the next federal election, rejected criticism of the fund by Ontario Premier William Davis.

Davis said during last week's first ministers' economic conference that the Alberta fund, now $3.9 billion, is sapping capital that should be used to stimulate Canada's economy.

Arafat's against it

WASHINGTON (CP) — Yasser Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), said in an interview televised Sunday that linking the Palestinian issue to a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel will not temper Palestinian opposition to the pact.

"It makes no difference," he said. "We are against it." Arafat, interviewed in Beirut, Lebanon, on the CBS-TV program Face the Nation, said the Palestinians will not accept accommodations between Egypt and Israel, which the PLO regards as the illegitimate occupier of the Palestinian homeland.

The question of linking the proposed peace treaty between those two countries with an agreement on granting Palestinian autonomy has snagged Egyptian-Israeli treaty negotiations.

Arafat indicated that the principals cannot expect PLO co-operation on their Palestinian problem. "They threw the Camp David agreements in our face and said this is what you can have and nothing more," he said.

The agreements reached at the recent U.S.-sponsored summit meeting in Camp David, Md., call for an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty

Spacecraft manoeuvres okay

PALO ALTO, Calif. (Reuters) — The unmanned spacecraft Pioneer Venus I carried out manoeuvres successfully Saturday, preparing to go into orbit around the planet Venus on Monday, a U.S. space official said here.

"Everything on the spacecraft is working perfectly and we are on target," the official said at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) Research Centre in Palo Alto.

The spacecraft, now 50 million kilometres (31 million miles), from earth is being followed by the five probes of the Pioneer Venus II Space Bus due to enter the atmosphere of the cloud-shrouded planet in one week.

The aim of the $250-million venture is to determine why Venus, the planet most like earth in size and distance from the Sun, evolved into a mass of searing heat in an atmosphere of carbon dioxide.

The main manoeuvre carried out by Pioneer Venus I on Saturday was to step up its rate of rotation to 51 from 30 revolutions a second.

Pioneer Venus I is expected to start sending daily reports back to the NASA centre Wednesday on the atmosphere of Venus along with pictures and surface maps.

The spacecraft is travelling at 13,208 kilometres (8,258 miles) an hour and has only 685,000 kilometres (426,000 miles) to go to complete its seven-month journey, the official said.

The Space Bus released its four "passenger" probes last month and they will land on widely-separated parts of Venus.

Peace talks slammed

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven Palestinian organizations, including the Canadian Arab Federation, approved a resolution Sunday denouncing the Israeli-Egyptian peace negotiations and declaring unconditional support for the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO).

Faruk Kaddumi, head of the PLO political department in Lebanon, was cheered at the closing session of the three-day Palestinian-American Congress in the Biltmore Hotel as he called on the 300 delegates to struggle for the creation of a Palestinian state.

"Revolution until victory!" his audience chanted in Arabic.

Bomb cripples old woman

PARIS (Reuters) — A 67-year-old woman injured in a bomb explosion in a central Paris department store Saturday remains in critical condition in hospital, police said Sunday.

It was erroneously reported Saturday night that the woman died several hours after the explosion.

Hospital sources said the part-time shop assistant had both legs amputated.

Eight people were injured in the explosion, which ripped through the basement of the store, Bazar de l'Hotel de Ville.

Anonymous callers telephoned a French radio and a police station to claim responsibility for the blast on behalf of the Breton Liberation Front, a guerrilla organization fighting for the independence of Brittany, and an unknown group called "Jewish Brigades."

But police said the attack probably was the work of a madman not linked to any guerrilla organization.

Jerry Lewis wasn't laughing

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Jerry Lewis says he considered suicide five years ago while under the influence of a pain-killing drug but recently has overcome his addiction.

In an interview in People magazine, Lewis says he was saved from shooting himself when "I heard my children laughing and running through the hall." Lewis says he became addicted to heavy doses of percodan after doctors were unable to stop the pain from a spinal injury he suffered in a fall during an act at Las Vegas in 1965.

From one pill a day he worked up to as many as 11 daily, until even these large doses did not relieve the pain. "It frightened the hell out of me," Lewis says. "If I hadn't had seven or eight pills in me at the time, I don't think I would have considered killing myself."

During Lewis' muscular dystrophy telethon last September, he kept going by having a doctor inject a pain-killing drug in his back.

Then heart specialist Dr. Michael DeBakey, whom Lewis had met through one of the telethons, persuaded Lewis to go into the doctor's Houston, Tex., clinic, where examination showed Lewis had a stomach ulcer.

DeBakey is quoted as saying the massive doses of the painkiller had hidden the ulcer symptoms and if the ulcer had gone undetected a few more weeks it might have hemorrhaged and killed the comedian.

In Houston, the magazine says, Lewis was kept under sedation during five days of withdrawal from the drug. Then the doctors came up with a new treatment which made the back pain bearable.

Andras defends economic board

OTTAWA (CP) — The new board of economic development ministers will cut red tape and provide stable and co-ordinated policies for better economic growth, says Robert Andras, the board's president.

"Some of the best things we could do in this whole operation is get the devil out of the way and provide a stable set of ground rules for industry for a period of time..." Andras said in an interview on the CTV public affairs program Question Period, taped for broadcast Sunday.

"They (industry) need a four or five-year horizon of stability and clear signals from us, and I think this co-ordinating role will attempt to do that."

Andras denied that creation of the board is downgrading the finance ministry. He also denied Finance Minister Jean Chretien boycotted the inauguration of the new cabinet last week.

"I've got a co-ordinating job to do. It's controversial in the structure of our government... But I think the end purpose is worth the gamble for me and for the government. I think the need for co-ordination has become more and more obvious."

The creation of the board of economic development ministers was announced Nov. 24. Members of the board will include the ministers of industry, trade and commerce, employment and immigration, regional economic expansion, energy, mines and resources, labor, small business, revenue and science and technology. The minister of finance and president of treasury board are ex-officio (non-voting) members.

The order-in-council proclaiming creation of the board will come to the Commons for debate probably Monday.

NDP DOES BETTER - LEWIS

HALIFAX (CP) — The federal New Democrats have accomplished more for Canada in opposition than the other parties have in government, says David Lewis, former national leader of the NDP.

Addressing the Nova Scotia NDP's biennial convention Saturday, Lewis reminded younger members about the struggle the party has waged over the years to bring about social welfare programs which now are largely taken for granted.

He noted that forty years ago, federal aid to senior citizens consisted largely of $20 a month to persons over age 70 who qualified after a means test.

The social welfare programs being enjoyed today have all come about as a result of pressure applied by the CCF, the party's forerunner, the NDP and the example of the Saskatchewan government.

"There is not a senior citizen in Canada that is not 100 per cent better off today because of the CCF and NDP," Lewis said.

Lewis said the only reason the party has not been electorally successful in Canada is because it is hard to break tradition.

"I will have a mandate through my board to review every proposal and the money funds associated with every proposal of economic development... before they go forward to either treasury board or to the cabinet. That is the point of co-ordination," said Andras.

He rejected the charge that a "super ministry" was created because industry, trade and commerce and the finance department failed to come forward with quality advice on matters such as industrial development.

Nor, Andras said, was the new ministry merely taking power from the bureaucrats and putting it back into the hands of politicians. He intends, however, to enforce the emphasis of ministerial decisions based on a whole series of examination of options and alternatives.

Besides co-ordinating hundreds of economic development programs, the board will lead government's dialogue with management and labor. The board, Andras said, also will coordinate federal industrial policies with those of the provinces.

Any minister whose proposal has been rejected by the board would have the right of appeal to full cabinet, he pointed out.

Asked about the barriers to trade, movement of goods and labor existing within Canada and the board's role in regard to them, Andras said, such things indicate "loud and clear" the need for federal co-ordination.

It is to end such anomalies, duplications and overlapping, the board has been created, he said.

"It is not going to be a gab fest. It is not going to be snowed under by just mountains of paper and all that sort of thing. We are going to have to make decisions and we're going to have to be a red-tape-cutting mechanism not a red-tape-creating mechanism. I'm coming back to sell my new mechanism about which I'm quite enthusiastic."

MAY REVEAL NAME

Trudeau to meet Queen

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau is expected to tell Queen Elizabeth this week the secret that most Ottawa gossips are dying to know—the name of the next Governor-General.

Highly-placed government officials say it is "very likely" Trudeau will discuss the appointment of a successor to retiring Gov.-Gen. Jules Légaré when he lunches with the Queen Thursday at Buckingham Palace.

The luncheon is Trudeau's first official function as he breezes through the British and French capitals in two days.

Although it is the prime minister's responsibility to pick a new governor-general, tradition demands he consult the Queen before announcing her new Canadian representative.

Gov.-Gen. Légaré celebrates his fifth year in office next month and is expected to step down soon. Farewell interviews and lunches are already being arranged at Government House, his official residence.

During Trudeau's one-day stop in London, he also will have tea with the Queen Mother at her home, Clarence House, and meet Prime Minister Callaghan to discuss largely economic issues.

Economic concerns, especially world trade negotiations underway in Geneva, are expected to dominate talks again the following day in Paris with President Giscard d'Estaing.

The five-year-old Geneva talks are scheduled to end this month, setting new, possibly more liberal, tariff barriers between the major trading nations until the 1990s.

Canada is pressing for freer trade for agricultural and fish products—two of the country's major export commodities—but is meeting resistance from the European Economic Community and Japan.

Lowering of trade barriers would benefit the agricultural and fisheries sectors but jeopardize such heavily-subsidized Canadian industries as textiles, footwear and furniture.

Industry Minister Jack Horner announced in October the government has set aside $750 million to help small industries "with innovative ideas" facing extinction because of any free flow of lower-priced foreign products.

Discussions with the British and French leaders also will deal with the agreement forged by seven major industrial nations last summer in Bonn, Trudeau's office announced.

At that conference, the United States promised to take measures to stabilize its fluctuating dollar; Japan promised to decrease its trade surplus and West Germany agreed to stimulate domestic consumer demand.

Trudeau said in Bonn that these initiatives would help the Canadian economy grow and create jobs. However, inflation and unemployment are still serious problems for the Trudeau government and the economy in general is expected to fare worse next year than he had predicted in the summer.

While in Paris, Trudeau and d'Estaing also will likely touch on plans for creation of a commonwealth of French-speaking nations, government officials say.

France has publicly supported Quebec's bid to become a full member of the proposed commonwealth despite Canada's opposition and the French government's own avowal not to interfere in Canadian affairs.

Jewish women's group takes a look at image

OTTAWA (CP) — After 60 years, Canadian Hadassah has decided to take a new look at its image.

"We believe young people should be allowed to take the forefront," says Stella Torontow, national vice-president of Canadian Hadassah-Women's International Zionist Organization (WIZO).

"We don't believe, in rejecting or eliminating the senior women but we believe they now should serve an advisory capacity."

WIZO has decided to gear its efforts to attract younger women. No organization can exist without expertise and discipline, Mrs. Torontow says, and to achieve this end WIZO has started leadership seminars aimed at younger women.

This year marks the 60th anniversary of WIZO, one of the largest women's organizations in the world, with 50 federations from Canada to Hong Kong, and about 300,000 members. The Canadian branch has 17,000 volunteers.

Hadassah-WIZO was founded in 1918 by Lillian Freeman of Ottawa, who was influenced by Henrietta Szold, founder of the American Hadassah in 1912.

The U.S. organization has 335,000 members with 1,500 chapters and groups. The American Hadassah—the word is Hebrew for myrtle branch, the symbol of peace—has concentrated on improving health conditions in Israel, whereas WIZO has focused its attention mainly in the field of education.

WIZO began as an organization to help find homes for Jewish children orphaned during the First World War, Mrs. Torontow said in an interview during the recent annual Hadassah fundraising bazaar here.

But in the early 1930s, WIZO began to broaden its activities and embraced other spheres of Zionist endeavor.

It established—and continues to support—numerous youth centres in Israel, providing underprivileged children with recreational facilities and counselling.

Pope appeals for aid

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope John Paul has appealed to Christians to help the Vietnamese refugees trying to find new homes.

During his traditional Sunday noon benediction, the Pope told an estimated 30,000 people gathered in St. Peter's Square to pray for the refugees.

During and following the Nazi persecution, WIZO concentrated on alleviating the suffering among Jewish refugees.

Through such fund-raising activities as bazaars, luncheons and art shows, WIZO has been able to finance numerous projects that have improved the quality of life in Israel, Mrs. Torontow says.

The organization sponsors the Children's Research Institute in Jerusalem as well as giving financial assistance to Asofe Harof Hospital. One of their crowning achievements is Nahallal, a school specializing in agricultural training.

Mrs. Torontow says Jewish people have an in-born desire to educate and improve themselves.

Health committee expresses concern

Northwest Community College's curriculum committee will be studying four recommendations presented to the college board on Friday by the college's advisory committee on health care.

Paul Romancia, a spokesman for the health care committee, told the board Friday the executive committee should meet at least three times per year with the board to keep it better informed of the health committee's needs and activities.

He recommended that an appropriate budget and review procedure be established for the advisory committee and that a full time health program developer from the region be hired with additional staff support.

Romancia also recommended that the committee's $45,000 1979-80 budget be approved.

Romancia said that by meeting three times a year with the college board many of the communications problems which now exist would be overcome.

He said it has been clear that there have been some minor misunderstandings between the board and the committee after presentations have been made; and, more recently, there has not been sufficient input from the committee prior to budget recommendations.

Local health people have had to go outside the region for upgrading and the committee has been trying to establish a resource within the college region so that local needs can be met locally, he said.

A full-time person is needed to administer the courses offered to the 33 agencies which will use the health care program, he said.

Romancia said the health program developer should be someone from this region, who knows what the local needs are.

The new budget provides for $26,000 for a health program co-ordinator; $5,000 for a secretarial assistant; $3,000 for travel expenses; $1,000 for postage and telephone; $1,000 for xeroxing; $3,000 for committee expenses including travel costs; and $26,000 for programs development.

"We deal with a wide range of subjects, given to a diverse and geographically sparse population," said

Romancia. He said the projected needs determined in 1975 are now immediate needs and there is presently a need to respond to long-term needs before they become immediate.

He said last year was a positive year and NCC has been setting some trends for the Lower Mainland in health care programs.

Northern conditions require special skills of adaptations for newly trained personnel, or personnel trained to expect many of the support services available on the Lower Mainland, he said.

Responsibilities of individual decision making without support of resource personnel back up has been a concern of the committee, he said.

Other areas of concern by the committee have been the problem of attracting personnel on a stable basis in northern communities; staff replacements while members are taking courses and the increases emphasis in the health care field of auxiliary health care workers such as homemakers, daycare workers, paramedics and ambulance workers, he said.

HEALTH

DR. BOB YOUNG

Patent medicine hucksters have made a household word of anemia. The concept of weak, tired, or deficient blood is repeatedly stressed in the press and on television. Even the medical journals doctors receive continually remind us in their advertising of the need to keep our patient's blood in shape.

And they are right. If the patient is to retain optimal health it is necessary to combat anemia whenever it is found to exist.

The vast majority of over-the-counter medicines for anemia are sold on the presumption that the person using them has an iron deficiency anemia. Most anemias are due to iron deficiency and some of these may respond, at least temporarily, to iron replacement.

Before treating oneself for anemia by picking up a bottle of iron pills at the drugstore, a patient should have answers to certain questions.

He or she should know whether they actually have an anemia, and how severe it is. The type of anemia must be known. Pernicious anemia, the anemia associated with leukemias and other cancers will not be helped by iron, nor will many of the myriad of other known types of anemia.

It is a fallacy to believe that an iron deficiency anemia is of no consequence just because it is relatively common. The usual cause of iron deficiency in the adult is blood loss. It is rarely due to inadequate dietary iron except in pregnancy and at the extremes of age.

The proper treatment of an iron deficiency anemia should start with a search for a bleeding site. While chronic blood loss is usually due to problems in the intestinal tract or menstrual difficulties, there are many other possibilities.

Diagnosis of specific anemias can be very difficult, and is frequently made more so by the fact that the patient has upset laboratory findings by in-judicious use of iron.

There is no 'simple' anemia. If you think you are anemic, see your doctor. If he confirms your suspicions he can provide correct treatment for your case. If you are not anemic but feel unwell, your doctor is the best person to determine what your illness is.

COLLEGE COUNCIL

Out on own now

Northwest Community College Board is now separated from school board throughout the northwest region and the college now owns its own property, according to the new provincial college act.

The board submitted its 1979, $5.1 million operating budget to the department of education on Dec. 1. The budget to the department of education on Dec. 1.

The board submitted its 1979, $5.1 million operating budget to the department of education on Dec. 1. The budget to the department of education on Dec. 1. The $930,000 capital budget must be submitted by Dec. 31, says Geoff Harris, college bursar.

Harris did not know what the dates were for the final adoption of the budgets because, although they will be submitted under the old format, the board will be dealing with them under the new act. He said the college may have to use a double set of books.

Under the old system the college was a shared venture between the provincial government and the school boards of the college region. This included Queen Charlotte Islands, Prince Rupert, Terrace, Kitimat, Smithers and Nishga school boards.

During the regular college board meeting on Friday Dr. Val George, college principal, said that the college has received approval in principle from the ministry of education for the offer to lease property in the new shopping centre development of the Kitimat City Centre. There is expected to be 5,000 sq. feet of office space built for the college to lease, he said.

The college has had to cancel the diesel mechanic course again because it was unable to find a qualified instructor on the response from potential students was very poor Val George said.

Some of the Emily Carr College of Art outreach programs will be available in the college region in January, said Val George.

The number of students living in residences this term has been about 150. This compares with about 175 for the same period last year, the council was told.

The board will make a protest to the department of education about the St. John's Ambulance industrial first-aid courses that are being offered in the region. The courses were originally put on by NCC but education minister Pat McGeer, a supporter of St. John's, decided that it should no longer be a college function, Val George said.

The course was available from NCC for $100 and the course through St. John's is $135. St. John's has had to cancel courses because it cannot find instructors. NCC instructors were paid $15 and St. John's only pays $8, one of the board members said.

NCC was willing to hold the courses anywhere in the college region but St. John's refused to put on a course in Stewart because it couldn't get 25 students. NCC considers 16 students the maximum number for a class size, said Val George.

"St. John's has proven it cannot give quality of service," one of the board members said. "CanCel is behind the college and other local industries are not happy with the level of industrial first-aid training offered by St. John's, he said. The people who have taken the courses through St. John's are not satisfied with what they receive.

The college board decided to implement new student termination procedures until March when the procedures will be reviewed.

Val George said that the college has been using the old Vocational School procedures which did not allow for any student appeals. Under the new procedures students can appeal to a Divisional Student Appeal Committee composed of a member from the administration appointed by the principal, an instructional staff appointee member and a students council appointee member.

When a student receives the reason for his dismissal he has 48 hours to appeal to the principal. The decision of the appeal committee is final.

The board decided to allow guests of students to eat meals at the college, provided there is 24 hours notice. It decided not to allow overnight guests even if there were extra rooms available in the dorms.

The board decided it would not increase the rates in the dormitories until it was forced to. Val George said there was a $230,000 difference between dorm subsidies and expenditures.

Barbara Stevens, vice-president of the students council, said an increase in dorm rates would be a problem for students because the Canada Manpower living allowances were decreased from $79 to $60 per week. Many of the students are on UIC and there have been cutbacks in unemployment insurance. There have also been no increases from the department of labor, although the cost of living has gone up, she said.

Rae Rowe missed this opportunity, but Timbermen made good on three other chances enroute to a 3-1 victory over Smithers Totems Sunday

Terrace Timbermen split a pair of weekend games

The Terrace Timbermen split a pair of home games on the weekend, losing 5-3 to the Vanderhoof Flyers Saturday night, but coming back to drop the Smithers Totems 3-1 Sunday afternoon.

The two teams started somewhat cautiously Saturday night, and it wasn't until the 11:31 mark of the first period that Vanderhoof's David Lodge opened the scoring to give the Flyers a 1-0 advantage. Del Meashaw assisted on the play. Don Borno added another for Vanderhoof at 17:45, and the Flyers led 2-0 going into the second period. Vanderhoof Captain Del Meashaw had upped the count to 3-0 at 5:03 of the middle frame before Houston Hill finally got the Timbermen on the scoreboard with his goal at 10:40 of the period, narrowing the gap to 3-1 going into the final twenty minutes.

David Silver restored the Flyers three goal lead with his goal at 5:21 of the third, to make it 4-1, but the count became 4-2 when Terry Grimm connected with a power play goal at 12:10. Barry Heit added another Timbermen goal at 15:06, and suddenly it was a one goal game, 4-3. It took just another 46 seconds, however, for David Lodge to score his second goal of the game to round out the scoring, giving Vanderhoof the 5-3 win.

The Timbermen gave quick notice that things would be different Sunday, however, as Brad Riley's shot found the target just 26 seconds into the game, and it was already 1-0 Terrace. Riley added another at 7:02 to give the Timbermen a 2-0 lead over the Smithers Totems going into the second period.

Though the second period was scoreless, the Totems had numerous opportunities, and if not for the fine goaltending of Kim Gloeden, could have walked away with the game then. The Totems outshot Terrace 15-5 in that 20 minute span.

As they had in the first period, the Timbermen struck quickly in the third.

Just 23 seconds after the opening faceoff, Barry Heit deflected Gord Cochrane's long blast from the point, and suddenly the Totems found themselves behind 3-0.

Jim Stephens was the only Totem to beat Timbermen goaltender Kim Gloeden the whole game, and he did it in fine style. Using teammate Greg Zavaduk as a decoy on a 2 on 1 break, Stephens beat Gloeden with a hard wrist shot that was low to the glove side at 8:39 to make it 3-1.

Smithers came on strong after that, but a steady performance by Gloeden with the help of a couple of goalposts that got in the way of key shots kept the Totems at bay the remainder of the game, giving Terrace the 3-1 victory along with the split of weekend games.

The Terrace Timbermen's next home game is Wednesday night, 8:30 P.M., when they will play host to the speedy Kitimat Winterhawks, the surprise team of the PNWHL so far this season. The game is sure to be action packed and exciting, as the Timbermen are a much improved team of late, and are anxious to prove to Terrace fans that they are capable of skating with any team in the league.

Flyers drub Leafs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — DON Saleski and Rick MacLeish scored two goals each Sunday night to pace Philadelphia Flyers to a 7-2 drubbing of Toronto Maple Leafs in National Hockey League action.

Saleski, rumored to be on the trading block early in the season, opened the scoring at 3:25 of the first period when he took a perfect pass from Paul Evans and lifted the puck over Toronto goaltender Paul Harrison from the right circle.

Defenceman Bob Dailey made it 2-0 just 39 seconds later, slapping his own rebound past Harrison after coming from behind the net.

The Flyers put the game out of reach with two more goals in 19 seconds later in the same period.

goals, and had blanked the Black Hawks until Bordeleau connected. Darcy Rota gave the Hawks a 3-1 lead at 12:47 of the first period when Oleschuk was yanked in favor of Plasse.

Bob Murray, and John Marks had scored in the first six minutes to give Chicago a 2-0 lead. Wilf Paiement made the score 2-1 and scored again 12 seconds into the second period on a power play to make the score 3-2.

Hawks lead Smythe

CHICAGO (AP) — J.P. Bordeleau's goal with 7:58 left in the game Sunday night gave Chicago a 4-3 victory over Colorado Rockies and lifted the Black Hawks into first place in the Smythe Division of the National Hockey League.

Ted Bulley took the puck away from Don Awrey and gave it to Bordeleau who finally broke the spell of relief goalie Michel Plasse. Plasse had taken over for starter Bill Oleschuk, who allowed three first-period

Totem Ford shuts out G&A

In Terrace Commercial Hockey League action Thursday at the Terrace Arena, league scoring leader Reno Michaud went on a three goal binge, and assisted on two others, as Totem Ford shut out Gordon & Anderson 8-0.

Michaud didn't waste much time getting started, as his first goal came just 1:04 into the game, to give Totem Ford an early 1-0 lead. That was all the offense the Ford team could muster in the first period, and the lead carried into the middle frame.

Mike Ford scored at 4:48 of the second period, and it was 2-0. Bob Peacock's goal at 11:35 increased the margin to 3-0 going into the final twenty minutes of play.

Peacock scored once again just 55 seconds into the third period, and it looked as though the game was developing into a contest between the Ford players to see who could score the most goals. It turned out to be just that, as Reno Michaud got his second goal of the game at 5:05 of the period, and rounded out the scoring with his third goal of the night at 11:07 of the final frame to give Totem Ford the 6-0 win. The game was cleanly played with just eight minutes in penalties called the whole time, 6 minutes going to Gordon & Anderson. Ironically, G&A outshot the Totem Ford team 22-16, but it wasn't enough, as the score indicates.

The next scheduled action in the Terrace Commercial Hockey League is tonight, at the Terrace Arena, when McEwan GM takes on Skeena Hotel at 8:45 P.M., and the Terrace Chrysler Juveniles go against Totem Ford at 10:45 P.M.

Canadiens sweep weekend series

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Montreal's Guy Lafleur, who scored three times against Buffalo on Saturday, netted the goahead goal in the second period of their National Hockey League rematch Sunday night as the Canadiens posted a 4-1 victory.

The Sabres, with one victory in their last six outings, took the lead on Danny Gare's first-period power-play goal. Gilles Lupien was in the box for highsticking when Craig Ramsay passed to Gare at the side of the net and he jammed the puck off goaltender Michel Larocque's pads and into the net.

The Canadiens went ahead with a pair of second-period goals. Mario Tremblay scored a power-play goal on a screened shot from 40 feet out. Lafleur, who assisted on Tremblay's goal, then put the Canadiens ahead with a point-blank shot from the edge of the crease after taking Steve Shutt's pass from behind the net. It was his 17th goal of the season.

The Canadiens scored twice in 51 seconds early in the third period to put the game out of reach. Shutt took a pass from Lafleur and scored from about 30 feet. Doug Jarvis got the final goal from short range after skating in from the corner.

Hinkle, Bradley win playoff

LARGO, Fla. (AP) — Lon Hinkle and Pat Bradley birdied the first hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday for a one-stroke win worth $30,000 apiece in the mixed teams golf championship.

With an eight-foot birdie putt on the 15th hole, Hinkle managed to regain his team's twoday lead over Mike Hill and Vivian Brownlee, who caught up to them twice in final round of the $300,000 event at Bardmoor Country Club.

Hinkle-Bradley shot a 71 in regulation play Sunday for a 21-under-par 267, while the Hill-Brownlee pair shot 69 for their 267.

Persistent in their challenge, Hill-Brownlee tied the leaders at the turn and again at the finish to force the overtime. Brownlee sunk a 15-footer on the 18th hole for the tie.

Hill and Brownlee will split $39,000.

Hinkle, ranked 18th in the PGA, and Bradley, No. 2 in the LPGA, shot two bogeys and were two-over par on the 10th hole before they came back with five birdies to win on the 7,015-yard course.

Defending champions

Jerry Pate and Hollis Stacy sunk five birdies but it was only enough to lift them from fifth place into a third-place 17-under-par finish. They came in with a final rounds of 67 for a 271 finish and $12,000 apiece.

The mixed event, in its third year, attracted the top 10 LPGA players and six of the top 10 from the PGA. The format was the same as last year. Both golfers teed off, then switched balls. After their second swing, they alternated shots to the hole.

Sunday NFL roundup

Los Angeles Rams, winners of five straight National Football Conference West titles under coach Chuck Knox, extended their divisional domination Sunday, taking the championship for the sixth year in a row.

The opportunistic Rams, 11-3 under the guidance of Ray Malavasi, did it with a 20-17 victory over New York Giants, 5-9, who suffered their sixth consecutive loss. The Rams broke a 10-10 tie with 5:21 to play when Pat Thomas raced 33 yards with an intercepted pass—Los Angeles' fourth interception of the game—then scored the winning points on Frank Corral's 35-yard field goal after Dave Elmendorf's fumble recovery and 39-yard return to the Giants' 20.

Only two other teams in National Football League history have won six consecutive divisional titles—Cleveland Browns from 1950-55 and Dallas Cowboys from 1966-71.

Pittsburgh Steelers also clinched their division Sunday, winning the American Football Conference Central title, defeating Houston Oilers 13-3. The Steelers' 12-2 record is the best in the league.

Dallas became the third team to clinch a division, overcoming New England Patriots 17-10 and winning the NFC East title. The Cowboys, 10-4, are two games ahead of Washington and Philadelphia, each 8-6 with two games remaining, but they have a better tiebreaker record than either the Redskins or the Eagles.

The loss reduced the Patriots' AFC East lead to one game over Miami, the Dolphins closing ground with a 16-0 victory over slumping Washington, the Redskins suffering their first shutout since 1971.

Meanwhile, Minnesota Vikings and Green Bay Packers, each 8-5-1, remained tied for first place in the NFC Central. The Vikings rode Fran Tarkenton's four touchdown passes, including a 20-yarder to Ahmad Rashad with 1:49 remaining, to a 28-27 triumph over Philadelphia. The Packers downed Tampa Bay Buccaneers 17-7.

In other games, Cincinnati Bengals routed Atlanta Falcons 37-7, New York Jets beat Baltimore Colts 24-16, St. Louis Cardinals topped Detroit Lions 21-14, New Orleans Saints defeated San Francisco 49ers 24-13, Kansas City Chiefs edged Buffalo Bills 14-10 and Seattle Seahawks routed Cleveland Browns 47-24.

In a late game Sunday, Oakland Raiders and Denver Broncos, tied for the AFC West lead with 8-5 records, met at Oakland.

Chicago Bears visit San Diego Chargers tonight.

Pittsburgh stopped Houston, 9-5, by forcing six turnovers and scoring on Guy Gerela's two field goals and a five-yard touchdown pass from Terry Bradshaw

Perry and Dick Jauron. The Jets, 8-6, celebrated the 10th anniversary of their Super Bowl III championship victory over Baltimore, beating the Colts, 5-9, with the help of touchdown passes of 48 and 38 yards to from Matt Robinson to Wesley Walker.

St. Louis, 5-9, broke a 14-14 tie against Detroit, 5-9, on Jim Hart's 53-yard touchdown pass play to rookie Dave Stief midway through the final period. Hart passed for a total of 161 yards, putting him over the 2,500-yard mark for the sixth time in his 13-year NFL career.

Rookie wide receiver Wes Chandler scored his first two NFL touchdowns—one on a 58-yard sprint after catching a pass one yard behind the line of scrimmage and the other a 12-yarder on a controversial call in the end zone for New Orleans, 6-8, against San Francisco, 1-13. The victory was New Orleans's sixth of the season, the most in its history.

Mike Livingston's three-yard touchdown pass to Walter White on the final play of the third quarter lifted Kansas City, 4-10, past Buffalo, 4-10.

Seattle, 8-6, won its third game in a row, hammering Cleveland, 7-7, with David Sims rushing for three touchdowns and defensive end Bill Gregory recovering two fumbles by Browns quarterback Brian Sipe that the Seahawks turned into scores. Sipe passed for three touchdowns.

Ali denies his retirement

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali denied Saturday that he will formally announce his retirement from boxing at a news conference here Thursday.

A story in Saturday's editions of the New York Daily News said Ali will formally announce his retirement at news conference he is scheduled to attend and quoted him as saying, "I want nothing to do with boxing any more. I am going on to a new life."

But the world heavyweight champion said by phone from Natchez, Miss., where he is filming the movie Freedom Road, he meant that he didn't want anything to do with boxing once he retires.

"I might fight again. You never know what I might do."

Ali, who has announced his retirement in the past only to retire again, has indicated on several occasions since regaining World Boxing Association title recognition by beating Leon Spinks last Sept. 15 that he will not fight again. And many boxing observers feel Ali, who will be 37 Jan. 17, will retire.

Bob Arum, who has promoted several Ali fights and who was trying to match Ali with light heavyweight champion Mike Rossman, said earlier in the week that Ali "has let me know he doesn't want to fight Rossman and that he might not fight again."

Saturday, Ali said, "You never know, someone might offer me $10 million."

The Thursday news conference has been called by Butch Lewis to publicize a boxing show he is promoting in nearby White Plains on Dec. 15. Joe Frazier is also scheduled to attend, as is amateur standout Greg Page.

"I'm not coming there for Butch Lewis," Ali said. "I have nothing to do with Butch Lewis or with any promotion. I'm coming for Greg Page. He's a Louisville boy (Ali is from Louisville, Ky.). Greg Page is going to

U.S. wins Federation Cup

MELBOURNE (AP) — The United States became the first country to win the Federation Cup in three successive years when it rallied to beat the host Australian team 2-1 behind veterans Chris Evert and Billie Jean King in a tense final Sunday.

King and Evert clinched the title when they outlasted Kerry Reid and Wendy Turnbull 4-6, 6-1, 6-4 in a 104-minute struggle in the deciding doubles match. Earlier, Reid beat young American Tracy Austin 6-3, 6-3 and Evert downed Turnbull 3-6, 6-1, 6-1 to set up the crucial doubles match.

Fittingly, it was King, the grand old lady of tennis, who wrapped up the remarkable comeback by the Americans—hammering a service that Reid couldn't handle for match point. The elated Americans threw their racquets high into the air and fell into each others arms as team member Rosie Casals rushed onto the court.

"We were concerned with our loss in the Wightman Cup (in Britain) and we knew we had to pull together and give it all we had," King said. "And that's exactly what we did."

The Australians, spurred on by a vocal home crowd, looked set for an upset victory when they broke Evert's serve in the seventh game of the opening set, winning 6-4. But the American pair fought back strongly and twice broke Reid's service to wrap up the second set 6-1 in only 23 minutes.

Several times in the deciding set the umpire had to appeal to the crowd for silence as the four players hammered volleys at each other and fought magnificent baseline battles.

Reid and Turnbull grabbed an early lead when King dropped serve for the only time in the match in the second game. But the lead was short-lived. Reid lost her serve in the next game and again in the seventh game when she twice misjudged returns from King which she let go only to watch in despair as they dropped onto the court.

It was Reid who earlier had set up the chance of an Australian victory by downing Austin, and she was the dominant player when she combined with Turnbull to beat the Soviet Union in the semi-finals.

BRUINS-RANGERS

Wensink pots game winner

NEW YORK (AP) — John Wensink's goal with 3:38 remaining Sunday night gave Boston a 3-2 National Hockey League victory over New York and continued the Bruins' domination of the Rangers at their Madison Square Garden home.

Boston's defence held New York without a shot for the first 12½ minutes of the second period. Then Steve Vickers took a 15-foot backhand and Phil Esposito knocked in the rebound to bring the Rangers to within one.

At 5:42 of the third period, with the Rangers' Mario Marois in the penalty box for holding, Nilsson worked his magic against Cheevers.

NHL Saturday

Marcel Dionne set a Los Angeles Kings club record by scoring in his sixth consecutive game in National Hockey League action Saturday night and may be off to his best year yet.

Dionne scored his 19th goal of the season as the Kings beat Detroit Red Wings 5-2. He leads the league in goals scored and has compiled his total in just 22 games of an 80-game schedule.

The Kings scored all their goals in the second period to overcome a 1-0 Detroit lead. Dave Taylor, Butch Goring, Murray Wilson, Bert Wilson and Dionne scored to counter a goal by Detroit's Nick Libett. Paul Woods completed the scoring with a shorthanded goal in the third period.

The loss left Detroit winless in its last 10 road games with an 0-7-3 record, while the victory gave Los Angeles its seventh win in its last 11 games against two ties and a pair of losses.

In other games Saturday, Montreal Canadiens trounced Buffalo Sabres 8-1, Toronto Maple Leafs defeated New York Rangers 5-2, New York Islanders beat Colorado Rockies 5-2, Boston Bruins downed Philadelphia Flyers 5-3, Pittsburgh Penguins beat Chicago Black Hawks 5-2 and St. Louis Blues beat Washington Capitals 5-2.

Pittsburgh put together a three-game winning streak for the first time since March, 1977, and moved into third place in the Norris Division with its win over Chicago.

Rookie Rod Schutt and veteran Dale Tallon had a goal and an assist each to pace the Penguins. Other Pittsburgh goals came from Orest Kindrachuk, Ron Stackhouse and Greg Malone. Chicago got goals from Grant Mulvey and Jim Harrison.

Guy Lafleur led the Montreal attack against Buffalo with three goals and an assist, while Steve Shutt added a goal and assisted on four others.

Sabres' defenceman Jocelyn Gouvrement opened the scoring early in the first period before Montreal struck back. The Canadiens fired 37 shots at Buffalo goalkeepers Rob Sauve and Randy Ireland. Ken Dryden faced just 19 shots in the Montreal nets.

Other Montreal goals were by Mario Tremblay, Pierre Mondou, Doug Jarvis and Bob Gainey.

Darryl Sittler and Pat Boutette each scored twice and Lanny McDonald added the other goal as Toronto erased a 2-0 Ranger lead and stopped New York's attempt at an NHL consecutive-game winning record.

New York had been riding a seven-game streak and was trying for the record-tying eighth game. Anders Hedberg and Lucien DeBois set the club off in the right direction before Toronto took control of the scoring.

Bryan Trottier scored his 12th goal of the season and it proved to be the winner as the Islanders downed Colorado and extended their unbeaten streak to 12 games.

Wayne Merrick, Bob Nystrom and Trottier gave the Islanders a 3-0 lead before Jack Valiquette could reply for the Rockies. Valiquette scored twice for the Rockies.

The win moved the Islanders into first place in the Patrick Division with a 15-3-4 record, the best in the NHL. New York is two points up on Atlanta Flames.

The Flames, who were at one time 10-0-2, now are 15-9-2 after losing their second consecutive game to the North Stars.

Gary Sargent scored twice to lead Minnesota with other goals coming from Mike Polich, his first NHL goal, Glen Sharpley and Al MacAdam. Guy Chouinard, his 16th goal, Red Laurence and Jean Pronovost replied for Atlanta.

Bernie Federko scored once and added three assists and linemate Wayne Babych scored twice to power St. Louis past Washington. Larry Patey and Pat Murdoch added the other Blues scores. Guy Charron and Greg Carroll scored for Washington.

The win was St. Louis' sixth in 26 games, while the loss was Washington's 16th in 25 games.

Under dog win

MARSALA, Sicily (Reuters) — Marvin Johnson of Indianapolis battled Yugoslav title-holder Mate Parlov into submission after less than 10 rounds of their scheduled 15-round bout Saturday night to take the World Boxing Council light-heavyweight crown.

The 24-year-old Johnson demolished Parlov, ending his 11-month reign as the only East European boxer to hold a world title.

Taking the fight to the favored Yugoslav from the outset, Johnson forced the pace until Parlov twice slipped to the canvas—more the result of tiredness than anything else—and took compulsory counts in the 10th round.

After the second knockdown, with less than 30 seconds left in the round, Parlov's seconds signalled that their man had had enough and British referee Roland Dakin stopped the fight.

MANAGING YOUR MONEY

A SECOND CAR?

It may be cheaper not to own a second car, even if that means renting one occasionally, concludes a recent study. With automotive price hikes and the rising cost of gas, automobile insurance and maintenance, alternative modes of transportation may save money.

The average base price of a 1978 American-made mid-sized car exceeds $4,200 before popular options are figured in. The annual fixed expense of owning such a car is $1,392, according to the study, which was made by Budget Rent a Car Corporation. This figure includes liability, collision and comprehensive insurance; license and registration fees; taxes and depreciation.

A typical three-year new car loan can add $137 a year in interest charges. These expenses occur whether the car is driven or not. Routine operating costs, including gas, oil and tires, amount to 6.65 cents per mile, raising total auto costs to $1,952 per year, over a 7,500-mile year. Other costs, such as garage storage, would be extra.

Using Budget Rent a Car's average rental, mileage and gas rates in 13 national population centers, the study compared the costs of owning a car and renting one. A family could rent a car for 65 days a year and drive 100 miles each day before exceeding the annual cost of owning a second car.

For people who occasionally need a station wagon or van, renting may make a lot of sense. These vehicles are expensive to maintain and they must be driven often to justify purchasing.

EVEN ONE GETS A TOUR AT THIS HUB

by Olga Ruskin

You don't have to be in a group to get a free guided tour of the Vancouver Art Gallery. The service is offered to everyone who is interested in the gallery whether one person or 30.

Accessibility is perhaps the keynote to describe the Vancouver Art Gallery located in the heart of downtown Vancouver at 1145 West Georgia, and there are few municipal galleries in Canada that are so close to the centre of things.

Attendance has risen 40 per cent the past three years, says Director Luke Rombout, and Vancouver's art gallery has become a major tourist attraction.

What makes the gallery even more accessible to everyone is the fact that you don't have to pay to enter the stimulating, sometimes unusual world of art inside.

This art gallery in Canada's third largest city is the most active gallery in the nation on the basis that it originates more shows than any other. Last year 16 original shows were put together and exhibited.

Inside you'll find regularly changing contemporary and historical exhibitions of painting, sculpture, graphic arts, photography and video related to national and international interests.

A TRAVEL FEATURE FROM TOURISM BRITISH COLUMBIA

One of the many exhibits art patrons see within a year.

The focus in the VAG is on Canadian contemporary art and the aim is to help bring recognition to the living artist and his work. So often in the past recognition has come to an artist after his death. Did you know, asks gallery information officer Dorothy Metcalfe, that Van Gogh never sold a painting in his life?

The most often-asked question at the Vancouver Art Gallery is "Where are the Emily Carr's?" because the finest collection of her work is considered to be here. This major Canadian artist, who became a member of the gallery in 1938, left 172 of her paintings, watercolors and drawings from 1909 to 1942 to the gallery's permanent collection. Included are her most significant works: "Big Raven", "A Rushing Sea of Undergrowth" and "Scorned as Timber, Beloved of the Sky". Starting in January, 1979, a portion of the gallery will be devoted to showing Emily Carr's works on a permanent basis. In the past it's only been in the summer when these have been displayed. You can still see some Carr's till mid-November.

The gallery's permanent collection, the largest municipal collection in Canada, includes in addition to Emily Carr works by Canadian, British, Dutch, French and American artists from the 17th century to the present.

A Vancouver newspaper heralded the opening of the Vancouver Art Gallery in 1931 with the words "The Art Gallery is one of the community's most valuable possessions because it contributes to the development of a faculty without which no city can have greatness." The gallery has grown since then, but now it needs more space, having last expanded in 1945.

Plans are being made to house the VAG in Vancouver's old Courthouse, a move anticipated in about three years. This would increase the present exhibition space from 108 square metres to 333 square metres.

The gallery is open Tuesday to Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sunday 1-5 p.m. The gallery shop is open daily and features reproductions of Emily Carr and Eskimo and Indian art.

Its walls can't contain it anymore.

QUIZ

1. In the 1939 Series, which the N.Y. Yankees swept in four games, the Cincinnati Reds' catcher was bowled over in a wild 10th inning play that clinched the Series for the Bronx Bombers. The dazed Reds' backstop was (a) Bill Dickey (b) Joe Garagiola or (c) Ernie Lombardi?

2. That same Series was the career finale for one of baseball's greatest heroes, Hall of Famer, that player was (a) Frankie Frisch (b) Lou Gehrig or (c) Johnny Vander Meer?

ANSWERS: 1. (c) Charlie Keller barreled into Lombardi as he scored, and while the upended catcher "snoozed," Joe Moggio also crossed the plate.

2. The 1939 Series marked the last time terminally ill Lou Gehrig wore a Yankee uniform. It also marked the first year of The Gillette Company's sponsorship of a Series. This year Gillette is celebrating the 40th year of association with the Series with a $1 million World Series Bonus Offer. Just bring the game piece from Feb. issues of national magazines to a participating store where a Gillette World Series display, sponsored by the Gillette Company, will have won prizes include a AMC Concord D/L car, 25 $1000 cash awards, and 5000 Gillette promax compact hair dryers.

Making Golden Years Shine
Old age is a phenomenon that is happening to more of us all the time: in 1976, nearly 23 million Americans were over 65; by 1986, experts predict, there will be nearly 28 million elderly Americans.

Special problems come with these later years, but new friends, new ideas and new experiences are still possible. These years can be truly golden when they become the growing years.

Helping people achieve this is the aim of the Christian ministry of The Salvation Army's services to the aging. To do this it developed a network of senior citizens clubs and drop-in centers, cheerful but moderately priced residences, summer camps and skilled sympathetic counselors. It helps people cope with the medical, social and financial problems of age. Trained and concerned counselors help elderly people with health, housing or employment problems. They know who to see and where to go for information on Social Security and Old Age Assistance. They can help young and old family members reach a better understanding of each other. These services given to all people enable thousands to find fulfillment in their later years and face the future with security.

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS

How To Get Your Snowthrower In Shape For Winter

Now is about the right time to start the snow removal season. If you have a snowthrower, that is. If you don't, better get your order in immediately. If you do have one, these tips can save you time, money and unnecessary problems.

Whether your equipment is a walk-behind model or a riding tractor with a snowthrower attachment, this is the time for very important preventive maintenance. Authorities for this advice are experts from the Simplicity Manufacturing Co., of Port Washington, Wisconsin, an Allis-Chalmers company and a leading manufacturer of lawn, garden, grounds maintenance and snow removal equipment.

If your snowthrower has been stored properly, pre-season preventive maintenance can be done quickly, simply and resultfully. Here's what should be done, according to Simplicity engineers.

1. Check all exposed surfaces for rust. Clean, oil, wax or paint as needed.

2. Check the engine compartment for intruders by wildlife. Clean away their debris. Check for signs of chewing. Repair belts and wiring.

3. Roll vehicles forward a bit to change pressure on tires. If vehicles have pneumatic tires, add air as needed.

4. Check for loose fasteners; you may have missed them in spring.

5. Check for parts "borrowed" by such members of the family as small boys with projects.

6. Check fuel tank for signs of condensation. Check cylinders for dryness. Follow the owner's manual and correct these conditions.

If you take these precautions with your snow removal machines, advise the product experts, you'll get more use at less cost over a longer period of time than you might have imagined. In fact, well cared for equipment used only at intervals should last for decades.

This care starts long before the fall tuneup. Before

In preparing your walk-behind snowthrower for the coming season, move the vehicle (left) to detect binding of moving parts or tire problems. Operate all the controls for response and ease of movement.

A snowblower is stored for the warm months, wise owners start their preventive maintenance.

A walk-behind snowthrower is a complete vehicle, and getting it into storage involves both the removal unit and the power unit. Start by a complete wash and wipe of the exposed surfaces and a thorough brushing out of the engine compartment. Get everything off surfaces that doesn't belong there, such as salt and sand on outside surfaces and grease and dirt buildup in the engine compartment. Clean the belts and electrical contact points.

This cleaning helps in preventing deterioration of metal and rubber and in preventing electrical malfunction. Equally important is preparation for prompt, uncomplicated startup when the snows come again. Owners' manuals instruct users, before they store their walk-behinds for the summer, to drain the oil and refill the crankcase with clean oil. The sparkplugs are to be removed and two tablespoons of clean oil are to be poured into the cylinder top allowing cylinder walls and engine internals to be coated with a clean lubricant. (Contamination in dirty oil corrodes metal.) This clean oil will reach all exposed internal engine areas best if the engine is cranked several revolutions.

The fuel tank, the manuals say, should be emptied bone dry to prevent formation of gum and varnish as the warm months, wise owners start their preventive maintenance.

Dealers sell such additives. However, you can't store a walk-behind with a full tank in a space-saving upended position; the fuel will leak out. The winding metal snow-grabbing surfaces—called "flights"—require some special attention of their own in both riding and walk-behind snow blowers. These surfaces take a beating whose effects can, with care, be minimized.

The pre-storage cleanup will disclose spots where paint has worn off. These need to be touched up with paint after any hints of rust are removed, or coated with clean engine oil. Has the equipment worked where sand and stones are encountered? Check for dents that could affect clearances and tap them out with a hammer before painting, coating with car wax, or oiling. Have clearances been changed due to sticks and stones jamming between moving and fixed surfaces? If a clearance problem is beyond your mechanical abilities, let your dealer have a look.

Components also can sustain dents and bends; family cars often are the culprits. Very likely, a snowthrower attachment for a rider type machine will be stored separately. The tractor itself likely will not be stored because tractor users usually keep such equipment busy all year.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am not a mixed-up teenager. I am a 22-year-old woman who has seen a lot of life.

When I was 16 I got involved with a married man and ended up with a baby and no husband. This is a small town and the word got around fast. After that I had the reputation of being easy, and 10 minutes after I was with a guy, I had a fight on my hands. (Why is it that men think just because a girl has made one mistake she has nothing to lose?)

When I try to explain that I've turned over a new leaf they think I'm putting on an act. How is a girl who has learned her lesson and changed her ways supposed to act?

NEW LEAF

DEAR LEAF: She is supposed to act like a lady and, after she's acted that way consistently, she will have convinced one and all that she has changed.

If she loses the man, she's lucky because she'll know he wasn't looking for a respectable girl. And, by the way, it's easier to live down a past if you change pastures.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a married man for nearly five years. I love him and he is like a father to my son whose father is dead.

He says he loves me, can't live without me, but he's trapped in an unhappy marriage (three children) and doesn't have the courage to leave his wife.

I've tried several times to give him up, but he always talks me out of it.

His wife knows about me and has told him she doesn't care what he does as long as he stays married to her.

I'm at an age where it seems impossible to meet single men, and I desperately want a man of my own. Can you help me?

TIRED OF CHEATING

DEAR TIRED: If you want a man of your own, say good-bye to him. And the sooner the better.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is a freshman who's away at college. We send her an allowance to cover smaller items, but she sends us all her larger bills and her father pays them.

She telephones us quite often, but she never writes. However, she is very prompt about sending us her bills which she sends off in an envelope without one personal word. It would mean so much if she just wrote, "love" and signed her name.

I suppose if I were to tell her how hurt her father and I are because of her thoughtlessness, she'd scribble a little duty note, but if we have to ask her for it we'd rather not have it.

I suppose this seems petty, but when I saw that postscript at the bottom of your column saying, "you'll feel better if you get it off your chest," I had to write. There! I wrote, and got it off my chest. Believe it or not, I feel better. Thanks, Abby.

OFF MY CHEST IN DENVER

CONFIDENTIAL TO VIRGO IN S.F.: The healing of a relationship that has been strained (or broken) can be compared with the healing of a broken arm.

Merely saying that everything is all right and never referring to the matter again won't help. It's like ignoring a broken arm, favoring it, and expecting it to heal miraculously. It won't. It has to be straightened out and carefully reset. This is understandably painful, but it's necessary because a break which hasn't mended properly will never be able to stand much pressure.
